The Good Word

A brilliant ruby red Tempranillo with violet hues. Expect intense aromas of ripe red berries with notes of licorice. The mouth is round and juicy with a long finish. Serve with paté, red meat, and rich stews.

About the Disciple

Located in San Clemente of southern Spain's La Mancha region, Bodegas Puente de Rus was formed in 1945 as a cooperative. Their wines represent tradition, staying true to local culture. They are currently 25 winegrowers creating vibrant wines that represent tradition and staying true to local culture.

They work a variety of soils spanning across 2,750 hectares in "Mancha Baja," averaging 722 meters above sea level. It gets dry. It gets hot. But it survives. Diurnal range is key, varying up to 15 degrees Celsius to give the fruit reprieve, calm the sugars, let acid thrive.

They practice organic methods, but don't have the certification. We know them, we trust them. Their wines are vegan. They're blessed with abundance, so they're able to produce wines that all of us can enjoy.
